Experience

Senior IBM editorial, digital and content strategist (consultant through APC) June 2016 – current

The Senior Editorial and Content Strategist for Digital serves as a creative innovator, ensuring that the voice of IBM is consistent and controlled throughout the ibm.com domain. Work with stakeholders across the IBM brand universe to stimulate demand by creating digital content that engages a wide range of audiences. Serve as subject matter expert, setting standards and providing guidance to stakeholders worldwide. Create responsive, mobile-friendly digital content for all platforms. Develop and review A/B and multivariate testing. Enable personalized, industry-focused content for the ibm.com domain; determine progression paths, establish roadmap for implementation, identify technical and creative requirements. Develop industry content and thought leadership; keep the publishing calendar and coordinate select industry promotions.

Editor, ibm.com home page (consultant through APC) June 2014 – June 2016

Developer of home-page content for complex technology offerings. Compelled visitor action toward deeper engagement using content. In an agile environment, employed metrics to determine success and to improve creative decisions. Worked closely with art directors to ensure that IBM's "digital front door" unflinchingly supported the brand.
